

Matthew McGovern

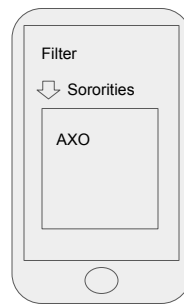

Emily Watts has a charity event for her sorority today, she did not think of a ride to it in advance. She is panicking because if she does not attend it she will be dropped.

Emily remembers of the new College Carpool app, which allows college kids to safely carpool with each other through a seamless interface.

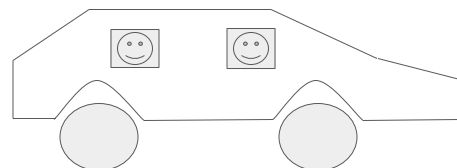

First, Emily enters her starting point (Granby Mills), and her destination (Goodwill). This will allow her to find people who are possibly from the same area as her, and people that are going to the same destination.

Next, Emily only feels comfortable riding with her sisters in her sorority. So she uses the filter to adjust to only members of AXO.

Emily sees potential people who could drive her and chooses someone to message. She chooses Jennifer and asks her for a ride.

Jennifer picks up Emily and they go to the charity event together.